Best known for his work on the Star Trek franchise, JJ Abrams has produced many of the biggest blockbusters of the past decade. His Star Wars trilogy, including The Force Awakens and the upcoming Star Wars: The Last Jedi, grossed over $4 billion at the global box office. With a reputation for genre-bending films with complex story lines, Abrams has also earned an enduring loyal fan base for his ability to tell a story and bring in audiences. Abrams has also produced several beloved projects, including the Disney-backed Super 8 and Cloverfield (with Kurtzman). Along with producing, Abrams co-directed the 2008 sci-fi film Cloverfield alongside Matt Reeves. While Cloverfield began life as a low-budget indie, it was executive produced by Abrams and became a surprise hit, paving the way for two more movies based on the concept. In 2011, Abrams produced the supernatural thriller Super 8, starring siblings Aaron and Naomi Griffin. It grossed $170 million worldwide on a $4 million budget and spawned two sequels and a TV series. Although Abrams scored a complete commercial success, he struggled to find a follow-up project to Super 8. In 2012, he took a hiatus from directing to focus on producing. In 2013, Abrams co-produced the critically acclaimed and global commercial hit Gone Girl, based on Gillian Flynn's bestselling novel. The film earned over $400 million at the global box office, and received widespread critical acclaim. The film, which stars Ben Affleck and Rosamund Pike, was widely regarded as one of the most successful debuts in the history of the modern film industry. Abrams followed it with 2014's Star Wars: The Force Awakens, which was an international sensation and the highest-grossing film in North America in 2015. The film broke several box-office records, including the highest-grossing film domestically and globally. Star Wars: The Last Jedi, the follow-up to 2015's The Force Awakens, is due to hit screens on December 15. On top of his filmography, Abrams has also worked on television shows including Felicity, Alias, Fringe, Lost, and Person of Interest. Abrams has also won several awards for his work in the entertainment industry. He won Saturn Awards for his work on Alias, Lost, and Person of Interest, while he has also won a Primetime Emmy Award and a Peabody Award. He was also honoured with a star on the Hollywood Walk of Fame and inducted into the Hollywood Walk of Fame
